Young Scholars in American Religion 2014-2016

The Center is pleased to announce the Young Scholars in American Religion program for 2014-2016. Laurie F. Maffly-Kipp, Distinguished Professor at the Danforth Center on Religion and Politics at Washington University in St. Louis, and Douglas Winiarski, Associate Professor and Chair of Religious Studies at the University of Richmond, will lead these seminars. Learn more at the Center's AAR/SBL reception and at our website in the coming weeks.

New: R&AC Online Forum

For 24 years, Religion and American Culture: A Journal of Interpretation has included an annual "Forum" section that asks several noted specialists to wrestle with an important question. The idea behind that very popular section has been to sustain and carry forward discussions begun in conferences and to address new topics as they appear on the horizon. We are pleased to announce that beginning in January 2014, the Center will expand this important feature to a monthly Online Forum. We will ask three scholars from various perspectives to wrestle in 1500 words with a topic or question, and then provide space for conversation by readers. We look forward to your participation in this exciting new venture.

The Bible in American Life Report and Conference

The long-awaited report on how Americans use scripture in their daily lives outside worship will be released in the coming weeks. Keep an eye out for a special announcement we will send by email. In the meantime, save the dates of August 6-9, 2014. The national conference on the Bible in American Life will be held in downtown Indianapolis. When the report is released, we will also give information about submitting a paper and registration.

Giving

Most of the Center's activities are funded through grants and donations. Gifts are appreciated and help greatly with operating and program costs, and can be made through the Indiana University Foundation. If you are thinking about year-end gifts and wish to support the Center for the Study of Religion and American Culture, your gift can be made online here.
